JACKSON, MS – McAngus Goudelock & Courie, a regional insurance defense firm, is pleased to announce the addition of attorneys Paige Herring and Wade Manor to their Jackson office. Herring and Manor's practices focus on civil litigation matters.

Herring earned a Juris Doctor from the Samford University Cumberland School of Law, a Master of Arts from Mississippi State University and a Bachelor of Arts from the University of Southern Mississippi. He is a member of the Mississippi Bar Association and the Georgia Bar Association, and brings nearly two decades of law practice to MGC.

Manor earned a Juris Doctor from the Mississippi College School of Law and a Bachelor of Science from Auburn University. He is a member of the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals and Defense Research Institute, and has been named to the Mid-South Super Lawyers list since 2017. Manor joins MGC with nearly three decades of insurance defense experience.
