

Matthew Byron

Matt represents insurance companies and their insureds in all aspects of litigation out of MGC's Nashville office. Prior to joining the firm, he practiced locally and handled a variety of matters, including insurance defense, creditors' rights and banking litigation as well as probate.

Matt keeps honesty and efficiency at the forefront of his practice at MGC. "I like my clients to know a realistic outcome of the case, as well as providing to the best of my ability excellent legal services without spending too many client resources handling the matter."

Matt is originally from Chicago and is a professional bass player. Outside of MGC, he enjoys playing music any chance he can get, cheering for Chicago sports teams, cooking, enjoying Nashville's craft breweries and spending time with his fiancé, Breanna, and their two cats.
