Matt's practice focuses on litigation matters, bringing over a decade of legal experience to MGC's Richmond office. Prior to joining MGC, he practiced at an insurance defense firm in Richmond for 10 years.

In his representation of insurance companies, Matt is adamant about communicating effectively, while going above and beyond in all aspects of his practice. "My clients need and expect an attorney that is going to partner with them to formulate an effective resolution strategy," he says. "It's my job to keep my eyes and ears open to find a reasonable resolution as early as possible to avoid getting mired in litigation with no end in sight."

Outside of MGC, Matt enjoys spending time with his wife and daughter, exploring new restaurants and breweries and traveling. He is also an enthusiastic runner, and has completed four marathons and over 20 half marathons.
